

History

- 1961 Company founded in Munich, offering a small selection of industrial adhesives, including polyester fillers and epoxy resins.
- 1989 DELO is acquired by a medical technology company.
- 1994 Relocation from Munich to Landsberg.
- 1998 After a management buyout by Dr. Wolf Herold and Sabine Herold, DELO becomes an independent company again.
- 2000 Growth of 23%: DELO gains sales revenues of €10 million
- 2004 Representative office opens in Shanghai.
- 2005 Representative office opens in Singapore.
- 2006/07 Relocation of German facilities to Windach.
- 2007 American subsidiary founded in Boston.
- 2008 By fiscal year 2008, DELO has 210 people on staff, topping the revenue mark at €30 million, revenues outside Germany accounting for 50%.
- 2009 Representative office opens in Taipei.
- 2010 Despite the global financial crisis, DELO closed the fiscal year with stable revenues.
- 2011 DELO increases its sales by 40% over the previous year.
Managing Partner Sabine Herold is elected to the Presidential Board at the BDI (Federation of German Industries) and VCI (German Chemical Industry Association).
- 2012 German Minister of Economics Philipp Rösler inaugurates a new laboratory building.
Subsidiary founded in Singapore.
- 2013 Staff count rises to 350 employees.
DELO produces revenues of more than €50 million.
Chinese subsidiary founded in Shanghai.
DELO builds a production and logistics building measuring over 5,000 square meters.
- 2014 Representative offices open in Kuala Lumpur and Seoul.

- 2015 DELO generates revenues of more than €74 million.
Network of partners expands with new distributors in Brazil, Mexico, Türkiye, and the Philippines.
- 2017 German Minister of Research Johanna Wanka inaugurates a new administration building.
Japanese subsidiary founded in Yokohama.
- 2018 At 660 employees, DELO achieves sales revenues of €159 million and a record growth of 67% from the previous year.
- 2019 With just three grams of adhesive DELO lifts a 17.5-t truck and breaks the record for the world's strongest adhesive.
- 2020 DELO achieves revenues of €163 million and grows to 800 employees.
- 2021 In its announcement for their >€1 billion Munich chip design center, Apple recognizes DELO as an important partner.

A fifth subsidiary is founded in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia.
- 2023 DELO staff count grows to over 1,000 employees.
- 2024 For a second, upcoming production facility, DELO establishes a second Malaysian subsidiary and buys a plot of land near Kuala Lumpur.